Marquis Rehabilitation and Care Center's Residents Travel back in time to the Roaring Twenties

Marquis Care Center, 102-bed skilled nursing facility located in Glen Cove, NY, traveled back in time with residents and staff. Through the use of costumes made by the residents, Duke Ellington's music, Cosmopolitan cocktails served in chilled martini glasses and an enthusiastic staff, residents were brought back to a simpler time, reminiscent of their youth and traveling beyond the four walls. Male residents were in full gangster regalia complete with fake Tommy guns and the female residents made their own feathered headbands during craft class that would rival any flapper's wardrobe. The staff was dressed head to toe in vintage clothing of the era as well. The afternoon culminated in a trivia session that stimulated long term memory and discussion of a simpler time. It was a wonderful afternoon enjoyed by all.

*Regeis Care Center
Hosts Luncheon
For Former Patients*

On August 17, 2006 Regeis Care Center, a 207-bed skilled nursing facility, located in the Bronx, NY, hosted a reunion luncheon for 13 former patients who received short term restorative rehabilitation care and returned to the community resuming an active lifestyle. The event was festive and gave these returnees the chance to talk about their experiences and their present lives in the community. They also wanted to say thank you to their Regeis care givers.

Janet Smith, Director of Admissions & Public Relations stated that "Regeis admits patients with a wide range of illnesses and diagnoses each week and provides the best state-of-the-art interdisciplinary clinical and rehabilitation care to be found anywhere. As a result, we have individuals with many success stories and their success becomes Regeis' success as well."

Richard Santiago, an engineer by profession, came to Regeis after undergoing open heart surgery. He states "from the smile of the receptionist who greets you as you enter Regeis, to the full compliment of staff members that support the healing process in its diversity, I cannot emphasize enough my positive experience as a cardiac recovering patient. I recommend Regeis Care Center very highly."

Donna Weiss, also a rehab graduate, states: "Regeis Care Center is a heaven for all with special needs. I arrived on a stretcher, and left using a walker. This was a gift beyond measure."

Regeis is scheduled to open an additional 30-bed short term state-of-the-art rehab unit this October. For admission information, please call 718-320-3700.

*Prestigious Optima Award Goes to Glen Cove Center
For Nursing and Rehabilitation*

Center's Innovative Hospitality Program Wins National Recognition

Glen Cove, NY – September 15, 2006 -- Glen Cove Center for Nursing and Rehabilitation, one of the premier health care facilities on Long Island, has been awarded the coveted Optima Award from Nursing Homes Magazine for its program "Tying the Hardest Knot" Creating and Sustaining a Culture of Hospitality. This is the second Optima Award for Glen Cove Center for Nursing and Rehabilitation (GCCNR), which was honored in 2003 for its creation of a five-star dining experience.

According to Jill Smoller, Director of GCCNR, winning the Optima award for hospitality is a distinction that she shares with her entire staff. "We are delighted and proud to receive this year's Optima Award for creating and sustaining a culture of hospitality. The added reward has been the positive affect the hospitality program has had among our staff, our residents and their families." Ms. Smoller continued, "our staff has always gone the extra mile in caring, but now we understand just how our positive efforts fit into the bigger picture. I can honestly say that happiness, caring and courtesy are contagious!"

Glen Cove Center for Nursing and Rehabilitation is a short-term and sub-acute rehabilitation facility staffed by an outstanding team of rehabilitation care providers and therapists. It is considered to be one of the finest rehabilitation centers on the North Shore of Long Island.
